

SHCG News – guidance for contributors

SHCG News acts as a channel for the exchange of information and opinions about current practice and theory in museums. We publish a wide range of articles - project write ups, book reviews, news, object studies and training reviews.

We welcome a wide variety of articles relating to social history and museums for publication in SHCG News. You can write an article for the News on any subject that you feel would be interesting to the museums' community.

Articles for the News should be between 500 and 1,500 words long.

Please either submit a typed copy of your article along with a copy on disk (saved as a PC word file or in richtext format) or send as an email to the News Editor.

Illustrations for articles are always welcome and original photographs can be returned.

Anyone submitting an article for publication will be asked to sign a copyright form. The form asks authors to agree to their work appearing in SHCG News and potentially on our website as part of a future News archive. It also asks authors to ensure that they have obtained permission to use any copyright material (images, photographs, quotations, extracts, illustrations, tables, etc.)
